

IMPORTANT ANNOUNCEMENT

TO CLOSE BUYERS!

W. A. RICE & BROS.

AT THE

LARGE

DRY GOODS

STORE!

FREMONT, O.

COMMENCED SELLING ON

FRIDAY, MAY 18TH,

Their Large and Splendid Stock of

DRY GOODS,

NOTIONS,

CARPETS, &C.

At Prices which Astonish Everybody.

In order to make room so that we shall be ready to repair our store by the middle of June. We must reduce our stock by that time.

All kinds of Goods are

SOLD AT BARGAINS!

TO THE CITY TRADE.

Those living in the city will find it to their interest to take advantage of this great sale and buy their Spring and Summer Dry Goods at lower prices than they have had since the war.

No Hump! A Sure Sale!

Compare prices before you buy elsewhere.

EXAMINE OUR

Striped and Figured Japanese Poplins, Black Alpaca, Dress Linens,

Table Linens, Fine Dress

Goods, Stripes and

Figured Piques,

Black Silks,

Great Stocks of Calicoes and Muslins.

The Largest Stock

PARASOLS

In the city. 1,000 Parasols at 25c each.

WM. A. RICE & BROS.

FREMONT, Ohio, May 15, 1872.

THE JOURNAL.

A. H. BALSLEY, Editor.

FREMONT, OHIO.

FRIDAY, June 7, 1872.

REPUBLICAN STATE TICKET.

Secretary of State—ALLEN T. WICKOFF.

Judge of Supreme Court—JOHN WELCH.

Board of Public Works—RICHARD B. PORTER.

PRESIDENTIAL ELECTORS.

JOHN C. LEE, ALFONSO HART.

PRESIDENT GRANT was nominated at Philadelphia by acclamation.

Hon. S. S. Cox is reported seriously ill, in Washington.

Next Monday is the day set for the adjournment of Congress.

VOORHIES thinks Greeley will be nominated, at Baltimore.

The editor of the Findlay Courier guesses he is in favor of Greeley, but don't know for certain.

THE Senior editor is shouting for Grant, and feasting on Jersey strawberries and musquitos at Philadelphia.

ONE more speech from Sumner, and a little castor rhetoric from Schurz, and Grant would be re-elected by a unanimous vote.

JAMES GORDON BENNETT, founder and proprietor of the New York Herald, died on Saturday afternoon of last week, at the ripe age of seventy-seven years.

HON. BENJ. STANTON, a former citizen of Ohio, and one who ranked with the best men of our state, died at his residence in Wheeling, Va., on Monday morning.

THE Greeley Democrats, who rejoice that they will vote for an honest man, find some consolation in the reflection that it was necessary to go outside of the Democratic party to find one.

PUTNAM, and the Cincinnati Enquirer will fare better this week, than they would have done had not the editor of the Messenger recently cooled his brain in the limpid waters of the Sandusky.

EX-PRESIDENT JOHNSON made his re-appearance on the stage of public affairs this week, as a witness before the Committee on Military Affairs, investigating the mystery of the missing Buell Commission documents.

A GREELEY MASS MEETING was held in New York on Monday night, at which Kilpatrick, Tipton and others talked about sears, false barriers and honest Democrats, and paid tribute to the great hemorrhoider party recently born.

THE Cincinnati Commercial had forgotten that the Liberal nominee for Vice-President had not formally accepted the nomination, and thinks that his letter of acceptance will be wholly satisfactory to his five hun-red Kentucky consuls.

It is wonderful, how rapidly they do multiply down there in Cleveland.

According to the Leader, the increase is at the rate about one a minute. By the time the next census is taken there won't be figures enough in the series to express the total.

The Cholera seems to be making rapid progress toward this country.

A French gunboat arrived at New York only a few days since, having on board forty cases of Asiatic Cholera. The boat was at once sent to open sea. Boards of Health should see to it that cleanliness is exacted in every locality, as a protection against this dreaded epidemic.

The New York Tribune was terribly impressed, with the ruin wrought by Sumner's awful storm, and was moved as follows:

"There is always something of desperate dignity in the spectacle of Alas! defying the lightning; but here we have the lightning striking and withering Ajax, which is a much more practicable matter."

For a picture of desperation give us Sumner; but we have never noticed that the Presidential Ajax was very badly withered.

The following choice extract from a Tribune article, on Voorhies, Terre, Haute speech, will explain Greeley's latest position toward the Democratic party:

"Of course Mr. Greeley is a Republican. Nobody ever thought of calling him anything else. If the Democrats, to secure the success of a platform they approve, and make the best use they can of the power they have, in the circumstances that surround them, should support him, they would be doing precisely what

Mr. Greeley himself has again and again done for his old antagonists."

We are more than ever satisfied that the true policy is to await the action of the Democratic party in the United States, to be expressed through their representatives at Baltimore on the 9th of July, and abide the result.—Plain Dealer.

"Jes so," with a fraction of the Democratic party eating vegetables raised at Chappagna and a few straggling after the great labor reformer

Davis, the remaining handful are swinging on the garden gate waiting in speechless expectation for something to "turn up" at Baltimore.

This heartless manner in which the Tribune plays upon Greeley's credulity, is truly pitiable. Some mornings there appear in its columns, a long letter from some column, a long letter from some column, a long letter from some column, a long letter from some column, a long letter from some column, a long letter from some column, a long letter from some column, a long letter from some column, a long letter from some column, a long letter from some column, a long letter from some column, a long letter from some column, a long letter from some column, a long letter from some column, a long letter from some column, a long letter from some column, a long letter from some column, a long letter from some column, a long letter from some column, a long letter from some column, a long letter from some column, a long letter from some column, a long letter from some column, a long letter from some column, a long letter from some column, a long letter from some column, a long letter from some column, a long letter from some column, a long letter from some column, a long letter from some column, a long letter from some column, a long letter from some col-

From the New York Mail.

THE SUPPLEMENTAL SECTION

THE BEST.

Continental Thought Favorable to It.

Nothing shows better how groundless the assertion of certain newspapers is, that the government of the United States has humiliated itself before the whole world by accepting the Supplemental Article to the Treaty of Washington, than the opinion of the leading journals in those countries which have no interest in a final settlement of the longstanding difficulties between England and the United States.

In Germany, whose eminent Chancellor, from motives dictated by the peculiar relations between the New Empire and Russia, seemed inclined to uphold the original claim of our government for consequential damages, there is now hardly an influential organ of public opinion but expresses the warmest desire for the ratification of the supplemental Article. The Berlin National Zeitung, which the United States has never been friendly during the civil war, says:

"There is at length a ray of hope, and a very bright one, that the struggle between the United States and Great Britain, which has been as it was by the claim of the American government for indirect damages, will be saved after all. A supplementary article, establishing a modus vivendi between the Cabinets of St. James and Washington, has been proposed, and it now depends on the wisdom and moderation of the latter to see to it that it be not rejected in consequence of the inconsiderate clamor of those who are not in a position to see the benefit which may be hot headed couple to see in this withdrawal from the original position in the American Case something derogatory to the national honor. It is certainly not dishonorable to recede from a demand which, upon reflection, has been condemned even by the most eminent Americans.

It is not a dishonorable thing to recede from a demand which, upon reflection, has been condemned even

by the most eminent Americans.

It is not a dishonorable thing to

recede from a demand which, upon

reflection, has been condemned even

by the most eminent Americans.

It is not a dishonorable thing to

recede from a demand which, upon

reflection, has been condemned even

by the most eminent Americans.

It is not a dishonorable thing to

recede from a demand which, upon

reflection, has been condemned even

by the most eminent Americans.

It is not a dishonorable thing to

recede from a demand which, upon

reflection, has been condemned even

by the most eminent Americans.

It is not a dishonorable thing to

recede from a demand which, upon

reflection, has been condemned even

by the most eminent Americans.

It is not a dishonorable thing to

recede from a demand which, upon

reflection, has been condemned even

by the most eminent Americans.

It is not a dishonorable thing to

recede from a demand which, upon

reflection, has been condemned even

by the most eminent Americans.

It is not a dishonorable thing to

recede from a demand which, upon

reflection, has been condemned even

by the most eminent Americans.

It is not a dishonorable thing to

recede from a demand which, upon

reflection, has been condemned even

by the most eminent Americans.

It is not a dishonorable thing to

recede from a demand which, upon

reflection, has been condemned even

by the most eminent Americans.